

PARENTS have supported the government directive outlawing holiday and extra lessons but educators, on the other hand, maintained that the practice is necessary for pupils to pass. Many public schools have been accused of profiteering through extra lessons with others going to an extent of forcing all their pupils to attend them for a fee.

Created: 8 April 2014

Read more...